it is not recommended to prescribe medication as the primary method of treatment for older people because their body is not responding to the components of the substance